A TRUE STORY BY DR. DREESSEN

She Told Me She Was Bringing in Her S.O.B. for Some Chiropractic Care. I thought, perhaps, her husband was "in the doghouse", but I quickly realized something else was going on. This is the tale of The Notorious S.O.B.

In the busy town of Mountlake Terrace, Mrs. Lillian Harper, a sprightly woman with a zest for life, was known for her quick wit and vibrant spirit. But recently, a shadow had been cast over her usual sparkle – her Sorry Old Back, or as she fondly referred to it, her "S.O.B." was acting up.

Each morning, Lillian would wake to the grumbles and complaints of her S.O.B., a relentless reminder of the adventures and misadventures of her younger years. It wasn't until the Northwest Clipper featured an article about Jerry Dreessen, the doctor at Back to Action Chiropractic, that a flicker of hope ignited in her eyes.

With determination in her step, Lillian made her way to the respected clinic, her S.O.B. grumbling with each move. As she entered the welcoming doors of Back to Action Chiropractic, she was greeted by the warmth and expertise of Dr. Dreessen himself.

"Ah, so you're the one bringing in the infamous S.O.B.!" Dr. Dreessen said with a knowing smile. His approach was not just professional but deeply compassionate, a blend that immediately put Lillian at ease.

Over the course of the sessions, Lillian's S.O.B. began to transform. What was once a source of discomfort and frustration slowly started to reclaim its strength and vitality. The care and precision with which Dr.Dreessen addressed her concerns and the results she was getting felt almost miraculous.

Now, when Lillian strolls through the streets of Mountlake Terrace, she's not just a woman with a story; she's a testament to the life-changing care so many patients receive at Back to Action Chiropractic.

Her steps are lighter, her laughter richer, and her S.O.B.? Well, it's not so sorry anymore.
